COOKIE POLICY

Last Updated: July 2026

Purpose

This Cookie Policy explains how PERPETUAL LIQUIDITY LIMITED uses cookies and similar technologies on its website, Client Area and related online services.

What are cookies

Cookies are small text files placed on your device when you visit a website. Similar technologies include pixels, tags, scripts, local storage and device identifiers.

Types of cookies we use

1. Strictly necessary cookies, used to operate the website, maintain security, enable login and remember essential preferences.
2. Performance and analytics cookies, used to understand website usage, improve performance and identify technical issues.
3. Functional cookies, used to remember preferences such as language, region and display settings.
4. Marketing cookies, used to measure campaigns and show relevant content where permitted.
5. Security cookies, used to prevent fraud, detect suspicious activity and protect the Client Area.

Third party cookies

Some cookies may be set by third party providers that support analytics, hosting, security, marketing, payment processing, platform integrations, live chat or other website functions. These providers may process data in accordance with their own policies.

Managing cookies

You can manage cookies through your browser settings and, where available, through our cookie banner or preferences tool. Blocking some cookies may affect website performance, login, platform access, security, forms or other functionality.

Changes

We may update this Cookie Policy from time to time. The latest version published on our website applies from the date stated at the top of the document.